

St. Jerome's in the University of Waterloo
Department of Philosophy
Philosophy of Law
PHIL 327-LS 351 sec 001
Course outline
Winter 2023

Course Information:

Lecture Times: There will be one recorded lecture posted on UW Learn each week on Tuesday. These are mandatory. There will be one on-campus, in-person lecture on Thursday 1:00-2:20, SJ2 2003. These are integral parts of the course, they are mandatory, and you need to attend them to succeed in the course.

Professor: Stephanie Gregoire

Email address: gregoire@uwaterloo.ca

Office Hours: Thursday, 3:00-4:00, Sweeney Hall #2002. Please do wear a mask.

Supplementary Meetings: Whenever you need help, you are welcome to send me an email. I will schedule a phone appointment or a Webex meeting at our mutual convenience. Do not hesitate to contact me, I am happy to help, and it is always better to act earlier rather than later.

Course Description/Learning Objectives:

The goal of this course is to become familiar with some of the basic issues in the philosophy of law. In the first part of the course, we will reflect upon the nature of law, starting from our experience and with the two principal legal theories (naturalism and positivism). We will also ask questions concerning aspects of legal practice, such as the nature of legal reasoning and the duties and responsibilities of those involved in the legal system. In the second part of the course, we will familiarize ourselves with the division of law into its different parts, such as constitutional, criminal and civil law, and we will examine certain key notions in these fields of law, such as rights, responsibility, excuses and punishment.

The format of the lectures will be oral, and will not involve Power Point or slides of any type. Recorded lectures will consist in a spoken presentation of the material by the professor on the issues to be considered. You will be notified in advance of the topics and readings to be discussed. Some videos might also be included. No transcripts of the recordings will be provided. You should listen to them, reflect, try to understand, and relate their content to the readings. Note that all of these steps, even if they are time-consuming and require an effort, are necessary for you to integrate the material and are normal in the context of a philosophy course. They have nothing to do with the covid 19 situation and its online environment, i.e., they would be required even if the totality of the course were delivered in a physical classroom. In-person sessions will be devoted to shorter presentations by the professor. They are also meant for students to ask questions, get clarifications, interact and engage in discussion, if they wish to do so. In-class tests will also be held then.

Required Texts and Readings:

You will be provided on UW LEARN with documents entitled ‘Guidelines for Study’, which are lists of the main points raised in the lectures and of the readings to be done. These are to help you to take and to structure your course notes and to keep up with the readings. You will also be provided with a number of handouts. The rest of the readings are available to you through the electronic reserve of the UW library. If you prefer, you can get these same readings in a courseware format at the UW bookstore.

Course Requirements and Marking Scheme:

Examinations will consist of multiple-choice, true or false, short answer questions and essay questions. They will be cumulative and will cover the lecture material, the video material and the reading material. There will be three in-class tests: 2 February (12%); 2 March (25%); 23 March (28%); and one final examination during the official period (35%).

Attendance Policy, Missed Tests:

I emphasize that class attendance is critical for good performance in this course. As for missed tests, I am forewarning you that I will be following strictly the UW policy. That means that if you are prevented from writing a test because of sickness not related to flu-like symptoms or COVID-related illnesses, a medical certificate must be presented and must provide all of the information requested by the “University of Waterloo Verification of Illness” form or it will not be accepted. It is better for all parties involved that you take good note of this at the beginning of the term. Also, note that elective arrangements such as travel plans, heavy workload, hobby commitments, family and part-time job obligations, etc, are not considered acceptable grounds for granting an alternative examination time. See <https://uwaterloo.ca/registrar/final-examinations/examination-regulations-and-related-matters>. All make-up midterm exams and quizzes will be offered on the first Friday following the exam, from 1:00–4:00.

COVID Contingency Plans:

In case of cancellation of in-person classes, whether for this particular course or University-wide:

If it is a short-term (e.g., one-week) cancellation, we will simply keep up with the regular schedule. If it is a longer-term cancellation, in-person meetings will be held synchronously online through Webex (UW Learn) at the regular time. If midterms or final examinations have to be cancelled, questions will be posted on UW Learn. You will be asked to type all of your answers in a Word document (no PDF, no Pages), with your name as the title on the icon and submit it through UW Learn drop boxes. I also need your name and your student id at the top of the first page of your document. If you cannot attend in-person classes due to self-isolation, you should contact students in the class, in order to borrow course notes to catch up. If you cannot attend make-up test sessions due to self-isolation, a special test will be provided to you to do as a take-home.

Intellectual Property:

Students should be aware that this course contains the intellectual property of their instructor, TA, and/or St. Jerome's University. Intellectual property includes items such as:

- Lecture content, spoken and written (and any audio/video recording thereof);
- Lecture handouts, presentations, and other materials prepared for the course (e.g., PowerPoint slides);
- Questions or solution sets from various types of assessments (e.g., assignments, quizzes, tests, final exams); and
- Work protected by copyright (e.g., any work authored by the instructor or TA or used by the instructor or TA with permission of the copyright owner).

Course materials and the intellectual property contained therein, are used to enhance a student's educational experience. However, sharing this intellectual property without the intellectual property owner's permission is a violation of intellectual property rights. For this reason, it is necessary to ask the instructor, TA, and/or St. Jerome's University for permission before uploading and sharing the intellectual property of others online (e.g., to an online repository). Permission from an instructor, TA, or the University is also necessary before sharing the intellectual property of others from completed courses with students taking the same/similar courses in subsequent terms/years. In many cases, instructors might be happy to allow distribution of certain materials. However, doing so without expressed permission is considered a violation of intellectual property rights. Please alert the instructor if you become aware of intellectual property belonging to others (past or present) circulating, either through the student body or online. The intellectual property rights owner deserves to know (and may have already given their consent).

Other Important Information:

Academic Integrity: In order to maintain a culture of academic integrity, members of the University of Waterloo community are expected to promote honesty, trust, fairness, respect, and responsibility. [Check www.uwaterloo.ca/academicintegrity/ for more information.]

Grievance: A student who believes that a decision affecting some aspect of their university life has been unfair or unreasonable may have grounds for initiating a grievance. Read the St. Jerome's University Policy on Student Petitions and Grievances, www.sju.ca/sites/default/files/upload_file/PLCY_AOM_Student-Petitions-and- Grievances_20151211-SJUSCapproved.pdf. When in doubt, please be certain to contact the St. Jerome's Advising Specialist, Student Affairs Office, who will provide further assistance.

Discipline: A student is expected to know what constitutes academic integrity, to avoid committing an academic offence, and to take responsibility for their actions. [Check www.uwaterloo.ca/academicintegrity/ for more information.] A student who is unsure whether an action constitutes an offence, or who needs help in learning how to avoid offences (e.g., plagiarism, cheating) or about "rules" for group work/collaboration should seek guidance from the course instructor, academic advisor, or the Associate Dean. When misconduct has been found to have occurred, disciplinary penalties will be imposed under the St. Jerome's University Policy on Student Discipline, www.sju.ca/sites/default/files/PLCY_AOM_Student-Discipline_20131122-SJUSCapproved.pdf. For information on categories of offences and types of penalties, students should refer to University of Waterloo Policy 71, Student Discipline, www.adm.uwaterloo.ca/infosec/Policies/policy71.htm. For typical penalties, check the Guidelines for the Assessment of Penalties, www.adm.uwaterloo.ca/infosec/guidelines/penaltyguidelines.htm.

Appeals: A decision made or penalty imposed under the St. Jerome's University Policy on Student Petitions and Grievances (other than a petition) or the St. Jerome's University Policy on Student Discipline may be appealed if there is a ground. A student who believes they have a ground for an appeal should refer to the St. Jerome's University Policy on Student Appeals, www.sju.ca/sites/default/files/PLCY_AOM_Student-Appeals_20131122-SJUSCapproved.pdf.

Note for students with disabilities: AccessAbility Services, located in Needles Hall (Room 1401) at the University of Waterloo, collaborates with all academic departments to arrange appropriate accommodations for students with disabilities without compromising the academic integrity of the curriculum. If you require academic accommodations to lessen the impact of your disability, please register with AccessAbility Services at the beginning of each academic term, www.uwaterloo.ca/accessability-services/.
